BOWLING GREEN, KY.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 17, 1962

Roberta Johnson Reigns As Military Ball Queen

An overflow crowd danced to the music of the Ray Franklin Orchestra featuring Lynne Nance as vocalist Friday night, January 12 at the 28th Annual Military Ball.

The Cadet Battle Group Staff and their dates comprised the receiving line. The line composed of Cadet Major William E. Pedigo;

Cadet Lt. Col. William F. Mize, Jr.; Roberta Johnson, senior biology and English major from Scottsville who was latter crowned the 1962 Military Ball Queen; Cadet Major Charles R. Summers and Mrs. Wanda Summers; Cadet Major Jesse H. Henson and Mrs. Deanna Henson; Cadet Major Harry R. Zimmerman and Carolyn Head, a Commerce Major from Lewisburg. Also in the receiving line were Cadet Major Stephen B. Crider and Mrs. Norma Ann Crider.

Special guests included Dr. and Mrs. Kelly Thompson.

The highlight of the evening came with the coronation ceremonies with Cadet Lt. Don E.

Traugher presiding as Master of Ceremonies. Roberta Ann Johnson was crowned the 1962 Military Ball Queen. Miss Johnson was escorted by Cadet Lt. Col. William F. Mize Jr. The Queen's court was comprised of Pat Norman, present Pershing Rifle sponsor and a sophomore commerce major from

Teacher Has Perfect Attendance For 30 Years

By Diddy Dale
(Mrs. Diddy Wells Curran)
EDITORS NOTE: Taken from Dec. 7, 1961 edition of Park City Daily News in which Mrs. Curran has a regularly appearing column, "Wind From Western."

Occasionally we hear of a pupil who has completed 12 years of perfect attendance, but it is seldom that we learn about a school teacher, who has to her credit perfect attendance over a long period of time.

Not long ago I was talking to James A. Carpenter, Director of Western's Training School, who mentioned to me the fact that his school system could proudly boast of such a teacher.

Her name is Miss Lavinia Hunter, and she has taught at the Training School for 30 years—30 years of perfect attendance at that. The only time that she does not appear for class is when she attends professional meetings, which of course are in conjunction with her work and are considered a part of the teaching program.

Miss Hunter has been fortunate in not having had illness to necessitate her absence from teaching for 30 years, however, like all of us she has felt bad some days. She becomes an outstanding teacher here by virtue of the fact

Thompson, Diddle Receive Honors

President Kelly Thompson and Coach E. A. Diddle were honored Monday night by the Bowling Green-Warren County Chamber of Commerce. Both were presented plaques in recognition of meritorious service to the city and county in 1960-61.

The plaques were presented to President Thompson and Coach Diddle by Mr. O. L. Kirk, the outgoing president of the honoring organization.

Mr. Edward A. Knob, member of the Music department and Director of Bands at Western, announced that there are playing scholarships available for prospective band members. There are openings in all sections, and anyone interested should contact Mr. Knob during exam week or the week of registration.

Dedication For College Launderette Is Held

Through the efforts of the President's Student Advisory Council, the new College Heights Foundation Launderette was dedicated Monday, January 8 at 10 a. m. Originally the idea was developed by the Student Advisory Council because the laundry facilities in the dormitories were inadequate. The Council made the request and President Kelly Thompson submitted the request to the Board of Regents and the College Heights Foundation, which financed the funds to renovate the building and equip it with twenty washers, eight dryers, coin changers, hair dryers, baskets, coat racks, study tables, restrooms, and a sufficient parking area. The net proceeds of the Launderette will go to the Foundation for the use of student loans.

Mr. A. J. Thurman, executive secretary of the College Heights Foundation, presided at the opening of the new Campus facility. Present were President Thompson, members of the Student Advisory Council, Board of Directors College Heights Foundation, and representatives across the campus. Mr. Thurman introduced President Thompson, who in turn recognized the others. He commended the Student Advisory Council of the past for their efforts in planning the launderette. He then cut the ribbon and distributed dimes to the students who

"Voices" Go On Sale

Voices is now on sale! Voices, a creative writing magazine, this semester offers you the opportunity of obtaining the complete works of Richard Oakley. Oakley, editor-in-chief of Western Writers, died November 4, after being injured in an automobile accident October 17. He was 22.

The memorial publication includes the sonnets, triolets, quatrains and other forms of poetry incorporated by Oakley. His sonnet, "When Something Fair and Precious Passes," which won third prize at the Southern Literary Festival in Nashville in 1961 is in the magazine, along with his first poem, "Wood." Also in this memorial edition is a short story and a fable written by Oakley. Complimenting the copy are reproductions of a poem in Oakley's handwriting and a pen and ink portrait of Oakley by John Warren Oakes. Art major and temporary editor-in-chief of Western Writers.

Copies of this publication of Western Writers may be purchased today in Van Meter Auditorium after chapel. After examinations members of Western Writers will be selling copies in the lobby of Cherry Hall, or copies may be bought from Mr. M. D. Palmer of the English department in his office, Room 111 in the English channel. The magazine has twice as many pages as the past publications and is selling for sixty cents.

Science Library To Be Opened

The new Science Library, located on the second floor of Thompson Hall, will be open next semester. The library will serve the Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Agriculture departments with books and periodicals.

Mrs. Myra Logsdon, graduate assistant working part time, will supervise the library under the direction of the college library staff. She will be assisted by qualified students. In recognition of their services, the portraits of early Ogden College supporters are displayed in the attractively furnished library. They are H. V. Loving, first regent, R. C. P. Thomas, largest donor, D. W. Wright, second regent, John E. Robinson, endowment donor and Robert W. Ogden, founder.

The paneling for one wall came from a bald cypress tree that had stood on Ogden Campus for over one hundred years.

The schedule of library hours will be announced later.

Appellate Judge To Speak Here

Judge John S. Palmore of the Court of Appeals, Frankfurt, is guest speaker at Chapel today. It is one of his many speeches given in Kentucky designed to "take the court to the people."

Judge Palmore first became interested in the legal profession through a boyhood friend, Maxey Harlin, local attorney and member of Western's Board of Regents.

Judge Palmore attended Western for two years before entering the University of Louisville

Hilltop Speakers Vie In Oratorical Contests

This week, January 14-18, will be one of unusual activity in the English department's Division of Speech and Forensics at Western. During this period, the four major speech competitions will be held honoring the outstanding speakers of the year at the college and selecting those students who qualify to represent Western in inter-collegiate competitions through the second semester of this school year. The contests are sponsored by local organizations interested in encouraging and promoting academic activities for the students of Western. To Mr. Russell H. Miller, director of forensics, falls the task of organizing and presenting these annual events.

On Monday afternoon at 4 p. m., six young ladies, all sophomores, competed in the SNEA contest for the award offered by the Lee Francis Jones Chapter of SNEA. The entrants for this occasion were Carolyn Patton from Charlestown, Indiana; Rebecca Claggett from Bowling Green; Bette Lou Miller from Simpsonville; Barbara Reynolds from Bowling Green; Linda Ford from Greenville; and Barbara St. Clair from Bardonia. ## Did You Realize?

By LONNIE DAWSON

As this semester draws to an end and everyone strives to finish his term paper or report, or complete his supplementary readings, the library receives the misuse and abuse of thoughtless people. Articles are cut out of bound periodicals, magazines are taken from the library, and some reference books disappear mysteriously.

Where do these books and magazines go? The answer to this question is simple, they are taken by a thoughtless person who has no regard for his fellow-student. It seems that some people would rather tear an article out of a magazine and head for the snack bar, rather than take the scant fifteen minutes necessary to read it.

Perhaps some students don't believe that these things happen, but let them ask any person who has had to get twenty or thirty reports on mental hygienics or communicable diseases, and they will tell you that this is a very common occurrence. As you look through bound volumes of such periodicals as "The Science Newsletter" you will find "windows" where articles have been cut from the pages. Better still, ask the librarians; they can give you many examples of these practices. For instance, already this semester there have been two copies of "Medieval Cities" taken from the reserve room.

The librarians say that they expect to lose a certain number of books and magazines each year, but this does not bother them as much as the uncalled for mutilation of books. They can see no necessity, at all, in someone cutting up pages, drawing pictures, writing, or making marks in books put in the library for everyone's use.

Another interesting fact about this situation is that the number of lost magazines increases during summer school. This seems strange since there are less students in summer school and a large number of these students are school teachers doing graduate work. Surely these teachers would frown on their students taking books and magazines from a school library, but apparently these same teachers don't mind "borrowing" books from Western's library. The faculty also has the habit of checking out magazines and forgetting to return them on time.

It is true that not every student is guilty of these practices, but for those who are, remember the next time you have an urge to tear out a magazine article or take a book when your classmates also have a need for this material that you are being unfair to them.

Models Of Famous Homes Housed In Kentucky Bldg.

Ten houses, chosen because of historical significance and as examples of the type of architecture in vogue at the time they were, comprise this group of famous homes in Kentucky. The models in the Kentucky Museum, each built on the scale of one eighth of an inch to a foot, are as exact replicas of the houses at the time of their original construction, as could be made from available research data.

The Davis Buerner Home, Fayette County, is one of the best examples of British Colonial architecture in this country. In the opinion of many prominent architects, the Buckner house, Rose Hill, at the corner of North Limestone and Fifth streets in Lexington is a fine example of architecture of this period. Named originally after its builder, John Brand, this old residence was modeled on the English farm-house style and was built about 1820. The present owner is Dr. G. Davis Buckner.

Castlewood, designed by Gibson Shryack and built in 1825 by James Estill, Jr., is located on Big Hill Road, five miles from Richmond. From an architectural standpoint, it is one of the most interesting houses in the state. It is of late Georgian style which was very popular at that time. The long central hall flanked by rooms on either side and the small wings built on both sides of the main structure are features found frequently in this type of building.

The Henry Clay Home, Ashland, on the Richmond Pike one mile east of Lexington, is the picturesque home originally built by Kentucky's brilliant statesman and orator. Erected in 1806 on a six hundred acre tract of land, the house was dismantled after having been occupied nearly fifty years but was reconstructed a short time later. Lathrobe, the English architect, designed the original structure, while L'Enfant, the landscape engineer who drew the plans for the nation's capitol, planned the landscaping. Clay's choice of the name Ashland probably resulted from his selection of the building site, which was almost surrounded by ash trees.

The Clason House in Ludlow, a suburb of Covington, is a fine example of the Greek Revival in architecture. Located on a plot of terraced ground which extends north to the Ohio River, the old residence is an imposing sight when viewed from boats passing along that waterway. Purchased twelve years ago by the Unity Lodge of Masons, today it serves as the Ludlow Masonic Temple but is hemmed in by more modern buildings which occupy space formerly belonging to the Clason property.

Liberty Hall in Frankfort is a splendid specimen of Georgian architecture. The house was designed by Thomas Jefferson and erected in 1796 by John Brown for use as his home. It occupied an entire block in section of Frankfort laid out by General James Wilkinson, a pioneer military and political leader of Kentucky.

The Marshall House, built about 1802 by Captain Thomas Marshall Jr., in the village of Washington, Mason County, has been the residence of generations of this illustrious family. The old brick home is owned and occupied at the present time by Mrs. Louise Marshall.

The Ephraim McDowell Home, occupied by Dr. Ephraim McDowell when he performed the world's first ovariectomy stands on Second between Main and Walnut streets, in Danville. For years after Dr. McDowell's death, the house was used by negro tenants and reached a dilapidated state. Rescued by the Kentucky State Medical Association, it has been restored to the condition in which

Article Written Here Appears In U.K. Journal

The January issue of the University of Kentucky's publication, Review of Government, contains an article written by three persons associated with Western. "Tenure of Officials in Kentucky Counties" is the title of the article written by Dr. William M. Jenkins, Jr., head of the Department of Business and Government; Mr. Earl C. Reed, AB '57, Mr. Young, a teacher of English at Hancock County High, has done special work at the college.

Research for this article is based on an examination of voting records of 20 Kentucky counties from 1921-61. The 20 counties selected for this survey very closely approximate the pattern of population distribution of the state as a whole.

Several interesting facts are disclosed in the study. County Court clerks have the longest average tenure or time in office, while the county judge and the jailer have the shortest tenure and highest turn-over. Tenure in county offices in general depends mainly on the nature of the office rather than on personalities. Additionally, tenure seems to bear little relationship to the professional requirements of the office involved. The most important single factor in explaining tenure differences for all offices except that of jailer is closeness to politics. Competition is the major factor with reference to tenure of jailers, since this is a relatively low-skilled position. Closeness to politics, though a major consideration in all county offices, is most important to the tenure of the county judge—the public official of the county to whom most citizens present their problems.

Book Marks

Have you ever wondered how etchings were done? A most interesting display of etchings and wood block prints can be seen in the exhibit cases of the library's second floor reading room.

Woodblocks are printed from raised surfaces. The parts that the artist does not want to print are carved away and the remaining raised surface is inked.

Etchings print the recessed rather than the raised areas. Ink is applied to the entire plate and then wiped from the high surface leaving ink in the depressions. A press pushes the paper into the depressions so that the ink will be picked up.

Also on display are the wooden blocks and the plates used in making the prints so that the viewer can get a better idea of the process.

These prints have been done by Graphics classes since the Spring of 1958. Among the exhibitors are Peggy Parks, John Oakes, Carolyn Alston, William Moseley, Hal Gomer, William Link, and Mr. William F. Loy. All of the student artists are either sophomores or juniors.

If you would like to learn more about this subject, Mr. Loy recommends Printmaking Today by Jules Heller and New Way of Gravure by Stanley Hayster. The latter is available in the reserve room of the library.

A set of the series, United States Army in World War II, has been secured for the library through the efforts of Lt. Col. James F. Marquis of the Military Science department.

Begun in 1946, the series now contains fifty-three of the proposed eighty volumes. Every aspect of the conflict from 1939 to V-J Day will be covered upon completion of the project.

A Western graduate, Jean S. Keith, AB '42, collaborated on the volume entitled, The Corps of Engineers: Troops and Equipment. This section discusses the way in which the Corps organized, equipped, and trained troops in the United States to meet the demands of wartime at home and overseas.

This gift of a second set to the library will make it possible to circulate volumes of this history to students and faculty members interested in reading about the campaigns and battles of the U. S. Army during World War II.

HILLTOPICS

By WILLIAM E. HOCKER

This being the time of year when young men's fancies, as well as young women's, turn to thoughts of final examinations, may I suggest that no game is ever won until the final play has been executed. This statement may be more clearly expressed by saying that no one ever passes or flunks a course completely until the final has been taken.

If you are in doubt about a course, don't give up so easily. Convincing yourself that you can not pass a course may win for you self-sympathy—but nothing other than that. If you think your academic ship is sinking, start looking for good strong pieces of knowledge with which to stop-up the holes. Although it may be far from the fine academic tradition, it is better to do a little last minute digging than to go totally unprepared while weeping.

Chemical Society To Hear Coover

The American Chemical Society will meet Tuesday evening, January 16, in Furman Hall at Vanderbilt University.

The speaker will be Dr. W. Coover, Jr. of the Tennessee Eastman Company. Dr. Coover received the B.S. degree from Hobart College and the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Cornell University. He served on the staff of Eastman Kodak in Rochester, from 1944 to 1950. Since 1950 he has been on the research staff of Tennessee Eastman in Kingsport. Dr. Coover's principal interests are in the high polymer and organophosphorus areas.

Dr. Coover's topic will be "Selective Polymerization." The most spectacular developments in polymer chemistry in recent years concerns the discovery of selective polymerization techniques which are capable of giving highly ordered polymers. Of particular interest are the stereo-selective polymerization of such simple asymmetric monomers as propylene, styrene, isoprene, vinyl alkyl ethers, methyl methacrylate, and propylene oxide.

Perhaps less spectacular than these developments has been the steady progress in other techniques for grafting monomers units into polymer chains. These new techniques for selective control in higher polymer synthesis are discussed and models are shown.

Plans Call For Two More Facilities

Western's long range program for expansion of its physical facilities includes a new library and a new building for its Training School, President Kelly Thompson said recently.

The statement reassured Training School patrons of the College's plan for a modern and up-to-date building.

Discussion had arisen concerning plans for a new structure following announcement last week of a proposed jointly-sponsored elementary school by Western and the City Board of Education. Location of the school on the Russellville Road at the southern end of Western's campus is being considered.

The joint venture would have no effect on plans for the Training School, the President said.

"For the past five years we have outlined our program to build a science hall, an academic-athletic building, and eventually convert the gymnasium and physical education building to classrooms and usable facilities for other purposes, build a library and a Training School," Dr. Thompson said.

"The science hall is finished, and we have started the academic athletic building. When we can start the other two projects is anybody's guess. It can only occur as the opportunities present themselves as governed by economic conditions," Dr. Thompson pointed out.

'Twelfth Night' Party Held By French Club

A "Twelfth Night" party or la Sete des Rois highlighted the regular monthly meeting of the French club on Thursday, January 4, at 4 p.m. in the Student Center.

Traditionally the person who finds the doll in his piece of the Twelfth Night cake is the king or queen of the festival and in turn chooses the king or queen to reign with him or her. Dr. Paul Hatcher, head of the Foreign Languages Department, found the doll in his piece of cake and reigned as king of the festival. He chose Jan Coates, freshman from Louisville, to reign as queen.

The court was composed of Marvin Crenshaw as prince, David Myers and Charles Smith as courtiers, and Joy Carpenter and Mickey Robinson as ladies-in-waiting. After the coronation ceremonies the king commanded entertainment and refreshments were served. Madam Pingon was the guest of the club.

ed by Cadet Captain Melvin L. Vogel. Wayne Ann Hile, "B" Company sponsor and a freshman home economics major from Calhoun was escorted by Cadet Captain John P. Fourqurean. Marilyn Cates, "C" Company sponsor and a junior home economics major from Louisville was escorted by Cadet Captain Robert D. Smith. Carolyn McClard, "D" Company sponsor and a freshman elementary education major from Bowling Green was escorted by Cadet Captain Duncan E. Sanford.

The smallest Queen was little Miss Jean Clark who was the crown bearer. She is a third grade student at the training school and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Clark of Bowling Green.

Wind Ensemble Will Present First Concert

The Western Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Mr. Edward A. Knob, will present its first concert of the year Sunday, February 11, in Van Meter Auditorium at 2:30 p.m.

Mr. Knob explained that a wind ensemble, although like a band in instrumentation, differs in that there are fewer players and the proportion of Brass to woodwinds is reduced. This modification makes this instrumental ensemble more flexible.

The program being presented by the 40-piece ensemble will consist of compositions by Charles Carter, J. S. Bach, Denes Agay, Vincent Persichetti, Kenneth Alford, Aram Khachaturian and Gustav Holst.

Admission is free and all are invited to the concert.

Freshmen Hear Dr. Earl Moore

The speed with which Dr. Earl A. Moore, a member of the English department, recalled the sixty-six books of the Bible was an astounding phase of his speech given at chapel assembly last Wednesday.

Dr. Moore spoke on the subject "Building Monuments of Character." He stressed three basic factors necessary for constructing a monument of character.

"First, one must use only the best materials." His suggestions were to read beyond course requirements and to avoid wasting time.

His second recommendation was to "imitate only the best models." His model reference was a bound volume of sixty-six books — the Bible.

The third factor was to "use only the best techniques" such as learning to take notes properly, to avoid cheating, and to avoid believing that it is all right to do a thing because everybody is doing it.

Dr. Moore stated that with these three factors, one could build a monument to be proud of, "but a monument would not be complete without an inscription." The inscription on the monument of character should read: "A Western student, full of knowledge and faithful to the test."

Dr. Moore recently addressed the Kentucky-Tennessee Divisions of Monument Makers of America at Mammoth Cave where he spoke on "Business Ethics" and "Epitaphs". Dr. Moore wrote his doctoral dissertation on epitaphs and has continued study in this field.

Varsity Debaters Will Sponsor 'Western Twist'

The Western Debate Associates will sponsor a dance Friday night, January 19, entitled "Western Twist". The purpose of the dance will be to raise funds for financing tournament expenses.

The last big dance of the first semester will be held in the Student Center from 8 p.m. till 12 a.m. The admission will be $1.50 per couple and $1.00 stag.

The music will be furnished by the Cavaliers in an attempt to "twist the first semester away" which is the slogan. One couple will be crowned "Hilltop Twist Champs".

Voice Majors Will Present Recital

Junior and senior music majors who are private voice students of Mr. Ohm Pauli, member of the Music department, will present an informal recital at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the choral room of the music building.

Freshmen and Sophomore students of Mr. Pauli presented their recital yesterday afternoon. All are welcome to attend the recital this afternoon at 3 p.m. in the choral room of the music building.

Jury finals for music majors will be held all day tomorrow.

Western Alumnus Dies At Age 42

Delbert R. Walden, 42, athletic director of Grant County High School and a Western graduate, died of a heart attack at his home in Grant County about 2 p.m. Tuesday, January 2.

Walden had gone to his farm a few miles away to help a tenant gather wood. He became ill and returned home. His wife called a doctor, but he died soon after the ambulance arrived to take him to a Covington hospital.

He had taken an Air Force physical only two weeks before his death and had showed no signs of sickness.

He was a graduate of Western and had received his master's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1956. He spent three years in the Air Force, and achieved the rank of captain in the 8381 Air Force Reserve Unit of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Walden began teaching and coaching basketball at Corinth High school in 1946-47. He moved to Williamstown High from 1947 to 1955 and occupied this same position from 1955 to 1958 at Grant County High.

He taught a Bible class for young married couples at the Methodist Church and was the father of twin boys, Gregory and Geoffrey.

His funeral was held at 2 p.m. on Friday, the same week of his death.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

Girl watchers are honorable men

LESSON 6-Who may watch

Any male is eligible to become a girl watcher. There is no age limit, although most girl watchers are over ten and under one hundred and four. There are no height or weight requirements, although taller men enjoy an obvious advantage at crowded parties. The only strict requirement is one of character. The girl watcher is a man of honor. Since he can't possibly take notes, as the bird watcher does, we must rely on his word. Therefore, when an experienced girl watcher tells you he saw nine beautiful girls while on his way to class, he saw nine beautiful girls. And when he tells you his Pall Mall is the cigarette of the century, believe him. It is.

Speech Contests

Tuesday afternoon was Men's Day, and David Baldock from Bowling Green; Mike Owsley from Barlow; Jerry Shuck from Henderson; and James A. Smith from Bowling Green, were the competitors for the cash award and medal offered by the Ogden Alumni Association to the winner in the Robinson Oratorical contest. Pat Chamberlain, winner of last year's Robinson award presided for this occasion at 4 p.m. in Snell Hall. At the time this paper was published the winner of the Robinson contest was unknown.

This afternoon at 4 p.m. Susan Moses Patterson, winner of the 1961 AAUW Oratorical Contest, will preside over the 1962 hearing of that event in Snell Hall. The AAUW Oratorical Contest is sponsored by the Bowling Green branch of the American Association of University Women annually. Judy Criswell from Jackson, Mississippi; Fay Wells Curran from Elizabethtown; Carolyn Alston from Florissant, Missouri; Cayle Lane from Morganfield; Sandra Markham from Russellville; and Barbara Stewart from Louisville are the six contestants who will speak on this occasion.

The fourth of the contests, and usually the most hotly contested one, is the Ogden Oratorical Contest for Junior and Senior men, sponsored by the Ogden Alumni Association. Competing for the 1962 cash award and medal are Don Hobbs from Rockport; William F. Locke from Bowling Green; Rod Murray from Beattyville; Bernard Madison from Rocky Hill; and Bill Hyatt from Erlanger. Winner in this competition is the guest speaker for the Ogden Day Chapel on March 28 and usually represents Western in the state competition at KIOA, which will be held this spring at Morehead State College.

Hilltoppers Will See Semester-Break Action

Two highly-rated Ohio Valley Conference schools will furnish the competition for the Hilltoppers during the semester break. Arch-rival Eastern, at Richmond, will be the first encounter on January 27, and then on January 30, the Topper's journey to Cookeville, Tenn. for a return engagement with Golden Eagles of Tennessee Tech. Western defeated the Eagles at Bowling Green 93-61 but, poor shooting and too many floor errors hurt the Eagles while the Toppers turned in one of their best performances of the season.

The Eastern Maroons, Western's first opponent, had a 37 game home floor winning string, until the Murray game last week which they lost on a desperation shot in the closing seconds of the game 82-80. The Maroons have only two returning lettermen from last year's team which shared the OVC crown with Morehead and Western. Senior co-captains Ray Gardner and Larry Parks, the two lettermen, along with Jim Werk, have led the Maroons in scoring to date. Records seem to mean little when these two teams meet and about the only advantage would be the home court. The Maroons have lost only one game so far, but will play two more games before meeting the Toppers. Eastern, picked to finish third in the conference behind Morehead and Western, can't be regarded too lightly as they out-classed the powerful Bartlesville Oilers, by a shocking 105-80. The Oilers went on to take the measure of three other OVC clubs, Tennessee Tech, Middle Tennessee, and Western. A win for the Topper's would not only mean another conference victory, but the Maroons come to Bowling Green in late February where the home court advantage will belong to Western.

A return battle with the Golden Eagles of Tennessee Tech. at Cookeville is Western's second semester-break foe. Although the Toppers completely ran the Eagles out of the gym at home, winning by a margin of 93-71, the game at Cookeville could have a different outlook. This time the home court advantage, which means so much in conference play, will be in Tech's favor. After hitting a dismal 15 per cent the first half at Bowling Green, the Eagles could be hard to handle if their shooting improves. Coach Johnny Oldham, a product of Western Coach Ed Diddle, would like nothing better than to beat the "old master" at home.

"W" Club Sponsors Dance

Following the Hilltoppers' victory over New Mexico State last Saturday, the "W" Club sponsored a dance in the Training School gym. The gym was effectively decorated with red and white crepe paper by the wives of the club members. The music was furnished by the "Cavaliers," a hilltop combo. Billy Booker, president of the "W" Club, reported the dance as a big success and indicated another dance might be sponsored in the future. Dances of this type are being encouraged by the school, as they tend to keep "suitcases" here on the week-ends.

Women Organize Intramural V-Ball Teams

The women's intramural volleyball teams have been organized, and the first practice game was Thursday, January 11. Each team is allowed two practices before the official competition begins.

No girl may represent more than one team. In order to be eligible for tournament play, a player must have attended and taken an active part in at least one full regularly scheduled practice.

The teams and managers are as follows:

Regents Hall Team . . . Pat Grace
West Hall Team . . . Mary Francis
Town Team . . . Jo Meridith
Potter Hall Team I . . . Donna Gregory
Potter Hall Team II . . .
McLean Hall Team I . . . Wanda Williams
McLean Hall Team II . . .
White Stone Hall Team I . . . Anna Jones
White Stone Hall Team II . . . Louise Hill
The sports chairmen are Jan Peavyhouse and Charlotte Royal.

Jackson Returns To Basketball Squad

Bobby Jackson quit Western's basketball team January 5, and returned to the squad January 9 after being voted back on the team by his teammates.

"I let the boy's decide," said Coach E. A. Diddle. "They voted on it, so he's back."

Jackson dressed for the Tennessee Tech game but did not see action in Western's 91-63 victory. The 24 year old junior forward has been a starter since the opening game of his sophomore sea-

Visiting Toppers Massacre Murray 72-61

The Western Hilltoppers downed the Murray Thoroughbreds 72-61, January 13, before an overflow crowd of 3,000 fans at Murray.

Ed Diddle's Hilltoppers led almost all the way and were ahead 39-32 at halftime. They were forced to fight off repeated charges by the Murray Racers to nail down their second Ohio Valley conference win in as many starts. Guards Bobby Rascoe and Dar-el Carrier led Western's scoring with 24 and 16 points respectively. Center Harry Todd turned in a masterful game, stopping Murray's Jim Jennings with only 11 points and 10 rebounds.

Todd collected twelve points, fed off beautifully and grabbed 9 rebounds despite missing a few minutes after injuring an ankle.

Jim Dunn and Doug Smith led Western's rebounding. Dunn collected 12 rebounds and Smith 11. Western dominated both backboards, out rebounding Murray 33-23 after holding a 30-15 halftime margin.

Western's backboard play and its defense were the big difference. Doug Smith led in the defensive effort.

This was Western's sixth win in 10 starts and leaves them 2-0 in the OVC.

Topper Freshmen Stop Tech 82-71

Ray Rhorer, hit for 23 points and guard Gene Haskett successfully battled for the ball as Western's freshmen romped past Tennessee Tech's freshmen 82-71 on January 9.

It was the third victory in four starts for Coach Dan King's freshmen. Rhorer got his 23 points on 8 field goals and 7 of 9 free throw attempts. Haskett had 11 points and 10 rebounds. Rhorer 23, F. Alsup 30, Keeton 15, F. Sanders 0, Marcum 4, C. Hays 17, Haskett 5, G. Dickens 16, Rhorer 23, G. Terhune 8. Subs—Western: Baker 14, Rightmeyer 2, Henning 8. Halftime score: Western 40, Tech 35.

Cagers Drop Tech 93-61 For Win In OVC Opener

Western defeated Tennessee Tech in their Ohio Valley Conference opener here January 9 by a score of 93-61 before a capacity crowd.

Doug Smith virtually destroyed Tennessee Tech's spirit before the game was 7 minutes old with his backcourt ball-hawking and his frantic lunges at the goal.

Guard Bobby Rascoe wound up with 32 points. Jim Dunn again patrolled the backboards. Sophomore guard Darel Carrier playing his best game of the year collected 16 points. Carrier sank a 20 footer and Smith tapped one in for a 4-0 lead. Frank Cardwell made two singles for Tech.

Smith stole and scored and collaborated on a steal again and Todd scored. Tom Rychener got a free throw for Tech, it was now

8-3. Western's lead increased slowly from this point on. The score a halftime read Western 46, Tech 27.

Rascoe was the only Hilltopper starter who didn't foul out. He collected 21 of his points in the last half to keep the flame burning.

Carrier fouled out with 10 minutes 51 seconds left to play, and he was followed in the next six minutes by Smith, Dunn, and Todd.

The officials whistled 53 fouls, 30 of these on Western. Tech was pressured into 21 floor errors and Western into 20. Both teams collected 52 rebounds with Dunn's 11 pacing Western, and reserve Ken Jolly picked off 8 for Tech.

The big difference was in the shooting. The Toppers hit 33 of 71 attempts for .465 percentage. Tech wound up with 18 of 71 for .254 accuracy.

Trailing Rascoe's 32 points for Western were Carrier with 16, Dunn with 14, and Smith with 13.

Papes led Tech's scoring with 14. He was followed by McKinney with 13. They were the only two Tech men in double figures.

DeMarcus Speaks To Rocket Club

"Man is not going to conquer space," were the words of Dr. Wendel DeMarcus, professor of physics at the University of Kentucky when he spoke to the Rocket Club on December 15, 1961.

Dr. DeMarcus said that man would never be able to develop a rocket which would transport him at the speed of light and even if he did he would still not be able to live long enough to reach the extremities of space. He also said that man would not go outside the solar system and then he explained what man will see on some of the closer planets if he reaches them.

The important factors that makes man's flight beyond our solar system improbable are the velocity of the fuel discharge rockets and the age to which life may reach. Dr. DeMarcus said that the only way fuel could be discharged fast enough to reach the speed of light was by using antimatter for fuel. The problem that arises is due to the fact that there is only an infinitely small amount of this anti-matter in the world.

The meeting and speaker were a part of the Rocket club's plan to educate themselves on some of the theory behind rockets before attempting to fire another rocket of their own building.

Dr. Charles E. Whittle, head of the Physics department, presided over the meeting. At the end of Dr. DeMarcus's lecture, questions were answered to make clear some of the finer points of the discussion.

Western Alumnus Promoted By GM Buick Division

William "Red" McCrocklin, previous All-American basketball player at Western, has been appointed to the position of general service manager of Buick Motor division of the General Motors Corporation.

McCrocklin won All-American honors as a member of Western's basketball team in 1937 and 1938.

The appointment of McCrocklin was made in Flint, Michigan on January 7 after he had served as zone manager in Chicago for five years.

McCrocklin majored in English at Western. According to some faculty members, McCrocklin was a fine student as well as a good ball player. He had a special interest in the field of English Renaissance.

He served as du Pont Manual High school basketball coach for a number of years before going to work for General Motors.

Rascoe-Williams Compete In Scoring

Western's Bobby Rascoe and Morehead's Granville Williams have taken up where they left off last year in scoring.

Last year, Rascoe had a 20.1 mark which gained him third place behind Williams.

This year Williams leads the OVC with a 28.4 average with Rascoe a close second with his 27.6 average.

H. B. BAILEY

Bailey Joins Campus Police Force

H. B. Bailey has joined the staff of Western Kentucky State College as a member of the campus police force, replacing Alvin B. McPherson who retired in December.

A native of North Carolina, Bailey was retired from the U. S. Air Force with the rank of Major in 1960, following completion of more than 23 years of active military service.

A graduate of Fremont, Virginia high school Bailey attended the University of Maryland, the London (England) Metropolitan Police Academy and the London Metropolitan Police Traffic School at Scotland Yard. He has had more than 20 years experience in criminal investigations, traffic safety and control, police administration and prison supervision. He is a graduate of numerous army and air force service schools.

Bailey is married to the former Edith Martin of Bowling Green, and they have three children.

Geography Club Will Meet Tomorrow Night

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Fing, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. and they were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Marlboro Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Marlboro is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, and very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and flavorful, its pack so king-size and flip-top, its filter so pure and white, and you will find when you smoke Marlboro that the world is filled with the song of birds and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through the first semester. Then one night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next June before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy!

They flung their beanies into the air and danced a gavotte and lit thirty or forty Marlboros and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invieta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invieta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods and one night, alas, they were tresp by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until spring set in and the bears went to Yellowstone for the tourist season.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

© 1962 Max Shulman

In case you worry about such things, their wife is a Marlboro smoker, too, which adds to the general merriment. Marlboro is ubiquitous, as well as flavorful, and you can buy them in all 50 states as well as the Canal Zone.

Perfect Record For Thirty Years

that even when not physically in the peak of health she faithfully meets her classes.

She is the first grade teacher at the Training School in a job that she chose over one offered her in Phoenix, Ariz., at the same time. She considered both offers and decided on teaching in Bowling Green where she wanted to locate.

Her education qualifies her for teaching in either the elementary of secondary level, and her original aim was to teach the languages in high school, a fact that is borne out by her undergraduate study, which included a major in Latin and minors in English and French.

She secured her A.B. degree from Converse College, a girl's school in Spartanburg, S. C. after receiving this degree, she taught at Gastonia, N. C., her home town, and later secured her master's in elementary education at Peabody, again with a minor in English. I thought it especially noteworthy that she became interested in elementary teaching through substituting in the first grade.

Miss Hunter's main hobby is swimming which she taught here to the first grade and kindergarten during World War II.

Miss Hunter, Miss Frances Richards, English teacher at Western, and Miss Fannie Holland, another teacher share the same house.

In keeping with the model teacher that Miss Hunter is, she belongs to several professional organizations such as the AAUW (American Association of University Women); the Association for Student Teaching, which by the way held its regional meeting this year in Knoxville. KEA and NEA; the National Society for the Study of Education, and the International Reading Association.

For Miss Hunter the school year is eleven-months, so that August is the only summer vacation she has. She spends this in the mountains of North Carolina with her folks. She does her traveling mostly at Christmas time, and this year she and Miss Gertrude Bale, supervising teacher of music at the Training School, went to Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Miss Hunter has taught children and later had them as student teachers and again she has had several children of former children she taught in the first grade.

Says Miss Hunter, "It is interesting to see them develop through the grades and see how they turn out." She believes that the advantage of staying in one place stems from getting to know the parents, the children, their brothers and sisters, and their children after them.

So in closing, let me say orchids to Miss Hunter, a devoted teacher with a quick smile, bright eyes, and a great love for children.

CHARLES LOGSDON

Logsdon Directs Studio Production

The next presentation of the Western Players Experimental Theatre will be an adaptation of Dore Schare's dramatic smash built around the early years in the political career of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, called Sunrise At Campobello. This student production will be directed by Charles Logsdon and presented in Shell Hall auditorium on February 14.

This adaptation of Schare's play is entitled "Ten Steps to the Presidency".

Model Homes Display At Ky. Bldg.

It was left by the world-famous surgeon.

The Morgan Home in Lexington, which is the former home of General John Hunt Morgan is located on second and Mill Streets. It is typical of an architectural style which characterized houses built in the Bluegrass region for half a century before the Civil War. The home has been converted to a museum.

The William Whitley Home in Lincoln County, was built in 1788 by Colonel William Whitley, famous pioneer and intrepid Indian fighter. The initials of Whitley appeared over the front door and those of his wife over the back door of the house. The initials are made through the use of various colored brick.

Wickland, built in 1817 by Charles Anderson Wickliffe and located just east of Bardstown in Nelson County, is one of the best examples of Federal architecture in Kentucky. The stately mansion is referred to as "The Home of Three Governors" and is reputed to be the only home in the United States from which three Governors from one family came.
